

As far back as the Stone Age, when cavemen and canines first became friends, the advantages of keeping a "watchdog" were readily apparent. It didn't take people long to figure out that a dog could be both powerful friend or formidable enemy. In exchange for leftover bones and a warm bed by the fire, the dog would instinctively protect its home by barking warnings to drive off intruders, whether human or beast. Through the centuries, from Lhasa Apso to Great Pyrenees, specific breeds have been developed to serve people as both companion and protector.

Correction With Affection

Dogs are naturally friendly and sociable. They enjoy human companionship and make their owners part of their pack.

Leadership

Every dog needs a pack leader to guide and train him. Someone in the family has to assume this role. This is very important, for it establishes control in the puppy and sets rules and limitations.

You must take control by structuring your dog's life and setting up routines such as where to eat, sleep, play and perform bathroom duties.

Proper leadership will provide the puppy with a feeling of warmth, love and security. NOTHING means more to your dog than this.

The Educated Dog

Is your dog ready to graduate? Our program goes beyond mainstream obedience training — "sit", "stay", "heel" and "come". An overall, obedient attitude can be developed. The positive effects of properly educating a dog and owner are endlessly rewarding.

Having a positive way to communicate with your dog eliminates confusion and stress and promotes a long, harmonious relationship. Call today for more information.

Training Your Dog

Ralph Gibson is a man who knows dogs. To him, dog training is not just a job, it is a lifelong interest.

Ralph has trained dogs for 26 years — 19 years professionally. He was educated in New York and Connecticut, working under eight different master trainers with degrees in child, animal and adult psychology. These trainers include Jack Healy and James Salva.

Behavior Problems

Some typical behavior problems with your dog include: housebreaking, barking, chewing, digging, car chasing, fighting, turning over garbage cans, jumping on people, pulling, wandering away from home and jumping on furniture.

At Ralph Gibson's World of Dogs, we do not use any outside reinforcements such as shock collars, food treats, drugs, pinch chains, bribes, force, intimidation or punishment of any kind.

We believe we have the most effective, humane training program available anywhere.
